Methodists to Celebrate 100th Anniversary of Frankfort Church

The Frankfort Methodist church will hold its centennial celebration next week, June 7, 8 and 9.

The program will begin at 7 o'clock Friday night, June 7, with a party for all young people, from the fourth grade thru high school. There is to be a mammoth, tiered birthday cake to add to the social side of the affair and there also is to be a campfire devotional period.

At 7:30 o'clock on the following evening the celebration will take the form of an all family celebration and on June 9, Centennial Sunday, there will be a special program.

There is to be a communion service at 9:30. Sunday school, for all classes thru the sixth grade, is scheduled for 10:30.

At 12 noon the centennial dinner is to be served in the Frankfort grade school gymnasium to mark the "kick off" of the review canvass.

Then at 2 o'clock in the afternoon it was announced by the pastor, the Rev. Ben Day, the cornerstone for the new church will be laid. The new church is being built at Sauk trail and Linden drive.

Dr. R. M. Powers, superintendent of the Joliet-Dixon district of the Rock River conference, and other special guests will take part in the cornerstone ceremonies.

The first Methodist church in Frankfort was started in 1856 and completed in 1857, two years after the village had been laid out.

Actually the history of the Methodist church in Frankfort is far older than the village. The records show that when Matthew Van Horne, of New York, and Francis Owen, of Kentucky, arrived at what is now Frankfort, they proceeded to organize a Methodist church, holding meetings in the various homes of the settlement. That was in 1832.

The Rev. S. R. Beggs, known thruout the region as Father Beggs, delivered the first sermon. The Rev. Mr. Beggs was a circuit rider, which means that he traveled from settlement to settlement on horseback holding services and sometimes performing marriage ceremonies or conducting funeral services for someone who probably had been buried weeks before his arrival.

In 1836 a class was organized in connection with the church and it met in the home of the Ambrose Dotys. Later a class and Sunday school was organized by Lorenzo Ruggies, a local preacher.

As was stated previously the first church was completed in 1857 at a cost of $2,000, on the site of the present one. The property on which the church and parsonage stand was purchased from Sherman W. and Sarah Bowen, and the deed is dated July 17, 1857.

Will Vote on Circuit Judges Monday, June 3

Voters of Will county will go to the polls Monday, June 3 to elect three circuit judges.

They also will vote on two proposals necessary to correct an error in the tuberculosis sanatorium tax set-up thru which a number of large corporations escape payment.

The sanatorium measure, incidentally, does not mean any increase in tax. Sometime ago the wrong form ballot was used in establishing the sanatorium and its tax rate. As a result a number of large corporations objected to the tax and their objections were sustained by the courts. Because of this the sanatorium has been losing around $10,000 a year in taxes from these sources.

Legal advisors of the county say that by voting "Yes", on one of the ballots to be submitted Monday, and "For" on the other, this defect in the sanatorium set-up will be cured and the large corporations who now escape the tax will have to pay their share.

In the judicial election there are two tickets, the Republican, on which the three incumbent judges are candidates, and the Democrat, on which there is but one candidate.

The three judges now on the bench are James V. Bartley, of Joliet; C. D. Henry, of Kankakee and Roscoe C. South, of Watseka.

The three counties they represent, Will, Kankakee and Iroquois, make up the 12th district. Importance of the courts in a democracy was stressed this week by Republican leaders in the 12th circuit. They termed the courts "the last citadel of Freedom," and urged voters to go to the polls Monday to see that this freedom is retained.

"To see that our courts continue to function honestly, efficiently and without prejudice is the duty of every individual," a party spokesman declared. "The three judges now on the bench in this circuit have considered this their sacred duty and have so operated their courts in the circuit. Their record speaks for itself. It emphasizes how ably they have carried on their duties."

Paul V. Wunder, second appellate clerk, who is in charge of the campaign for the three sitting judges, points out that the dockets in all three counties are less crowded than ever despite an increase in cases.

"Only by diligent attention to their work have they been able to keep the dockets from becoming cluttered," Wunder said. "Now it is possible for

Most of the nation will pause Thursday to pay tribute to the American dead of all wars.

Memorial day, which is observed on May 30, in most of the states, was originally devoted to honoring the memory of those who fell in the Civil War. Since then it has been dedicated to the dead of all wars in which this nation has been engaged.

In years past the day was usually marked by mammoth parades community picnics and orations. There are still parades but they are not as large as they once were, and picnics have been reduced for the most part to family affairs.

Decoration of graves of the war dead, from which the day was born, is still an integral part of it. Not only are the graves of the soldier dead ended on this day but other graves as well.

Mokena, Frankfort, New Lenox and Tinley Park all plan services for today.

At Mokena services will be held by the William Martin post, No. 725, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at its hall on Wolf road at 10 o'clock and the Commander, Clarence Zugenbuehler invites the public to attend.

The Rev. Jerald Jackson, pastor of the Mokena Methodist church will give the invocation and the Rev. Cecil Koop, pastor of St. Mary's church, the address.

Children of St. Mary's school under the direction of Sister M. Helen Ann, will sing "He," and "This Is My Country," and the public school choir, directed by Glen Miers, will sing "I Like it Here," and "God Bless America."

Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Girl Scouts will also take part in the program.

Norval Robinson will be master of ceremonies and Marshall Muller is to call the roll of deceased veterans from the area.

Following the program the VFW members, the Amvets and their auxiliaries will march with the VFW drum and bugle corps to the three cemeteries where the customary graveside services will be held. Erwin Hentsch, graves registrar for the VFW post, had the task of placing a flag on each veteran's grave in the Mokena cemeteries.

The Amvets are scheduled to furnish the firing squad that will fire the salutes in the three cemeteries and the VFW drum and bugle corps will furnish the buglers to sound Taps. The schedule calls for services at St. Mary's cemetery at 11 o'clock, Pioneer cemetery about 11:25 and St. John's cemetery at 11:45.

At 10 o'clock the Amvets firing squad, accompanied by a bugler, will fire a salute and sound Taps at the Veteran's marker at Lincoln Estates, U. S. 30 and 180th street. The Rev. S. E. Waldemer, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, Lincoln Estates, will give a brief address.

At Frankfort the services will begin at 1:30 in the afternoon at the public school grounds. The Frankfort grade school band will play several selections. School children, members of Bobzin-Swinford American Le-

USE CARE IN PASSING

When in doubt, don't try to pass. The Institute for Safer Living advises that one of the greatest causes of passing accidents is lack of sufficient unobscured vision. For safe passing at 45 miles per hour under most conditions, you should have a clear view of the road ahead for at least 400 feet.

More than seven out of every ten families in the United States own at least one automobile.

A total of 40,000 Americans were killed in 1956 traffic accidents.

Gino Federici Gets Letter for Tennis

Gino Federici, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Federici, 167th st. and 94th ave., Orland township, has been awarded a varsity junior college tennis letter at Kemper Military school, Boon-

Joe McCarthy was on hand in the absence of Mayor Knudsen to throw out the first ball, opening the new season.

The Tigers scored three runs in the first frame. Paul Ebeling, most valuable player of last years team singled. A single by Les Beccue, a double by Bill Tuttle and a single by Anfield accounted for three big runs.

Ray's bounced back with five runs in the second inning on five hits and an error.

In the sixth "Moose" Nasebandt tripled, Beccue and Tuttle scoring. Don Kuech laid down a perfect squeeze but to score Nasebandt. This made the score 6-5 in favor of Tinley.

Ray's boys offered no sympathy in the seventh as they found the range and kicked up a little dust around home plate to move ahead 8-6. David Zechlin, Lincoln-Way high school ace relieved Ron Schaper on the mound.

Zechlin fanned three in the eighth, but a double and a single allowed one run to score. This made the score 9-7.

Tinley went down 1-2-3 in the eighth. Ray's equaled this feat in the top of the ninth unable to master Zechlin's servings.

Ebeling led off the ninth with a single his third hit of the afternoon. Studnicki and Bell struck out. Tuttle also rapped out his third hit. Nasebandt walked. Then Dan Anfield, the commuting manager hit his game-winning double to deep left field to clean the bases and win the ballgame.

This was Tinley's first win in the South Suburban Baseball league against no losses. Next Sunday the Tigers will oppose Oak Forest, their down-the-tracks rival. Game time will be 2:30 at Oak Forest's new ball park, located on the northeast corner of 159th st. and Cicero ave.

Tri-County Loop to Begin Sixth Season

The Tri-County Baseball league, which has 12 teams for Small Fry and Babe Ruth competition, will begin its sixth year the second week in June. The leagues consist of two divisions with six teams each, known as the Southern and Northern division.

Winners of each division will play a championship game at the termination of the regular season. An all-star game at Manhattan is scheduled for June 29. Beecher will be host for the invitational tournament, which begins May 30, continuing thru Sunday, June 2.

League officers for 1957 are: Bud Baker, Peotone, president; William Zinn, Orland Park, vice president; Robert Wheeler, Frankfort, secretary-treasurer; and Wendell Morrison, Frankfort, commissioner.

The league has a president who knows a lot about baseball and he should. Bud Baker was in the majors 15 years mostly with the Athletics, then of Philadelphia. Baker, one might say, was somewhat unfortunate in that he and Jimmy Foxx, whose magic with the bat earned him a place in baseball's hall of fame, played the same position and so for many years Bud didn't get to play as much as he would have liked.

The league regrets the withdrawal of Tinley Park this year as they consistently brought top flight teams into the competition.

At a regular meeting in Peotone recently, the league admitted Laraway district of Joliet to the Small Fry and New Lenox to the Babe Ruth leagues.

Below is a complete listing of the participating teams in both categories:

Mokena Troop

Members of Girl Scout troop 107, Mokena, took their long awaited bird walk in Pilcher park near Joliet, Saturday morning accompanied by Mrs. James Murphy and Mrs. Roy Lembke.

Five of the hardier members brought bed rolls or sleeping bags to the Rudolph Engelhardt home in Mokena, last Friday night where they slept in the back yard. Despite cool and very damp weather they were determined to carry out their plans.

One girl could not sleep out because of an asthmatic condition but she did the nearest thing to camping out by arranging her bed roll on the living room floor. Stoutly refusing an invitation to use a couch, she rolled up in her blankets and slept soundly all night.

in true 1957 style, prepared their beds by arranging a heavy treated canvas on the ground to protect them from dampness, they placed their mounds of warm blankets properly arranged in scouting style on the canvas.

Prepared for attack of cold and dampness they further fortified themselves with more of the conveniences of our push-button civilization, by providing themselves with flashlights, alarm clocks, a round of cokes and a transistor radio, but it was not long before all were asleep in anticipation of rising at 5 a.m.

The campers, Karen Egness, Nancy Bisgrove, Mary Ann Watkins, Jean Waldschlaeger and Carol Sherwood were joined at 5:30 a.m. by Pasty Murphy and Ann Lembke. Pat Ronan and Mary Gibson were ill and unable to join the troop.

The girls from St. Mary's school: Mary Ann Majer, Susan Jasinski, Barbara Murdock, Roberta Deaville, Sandra Stephens, Regina Stanger and Judy Kuchenbecker were occupied with a school activity so were unable to take part.

The sun refused to shine in the morning so the usual number of birds was not seen but the girls walked through the park and were able to identify nine song birds and identified the songs of some they could not see. They saw an American linder tree, the first of this tree variety many had seen. This troupe is tree conscious as well as bird conscious as they have been studying the trees at the Englehardt home this spring.

The belief of many discerning folk that beauty and exciting things surround us at our doorsteps and our own back yards just awaiting our discovery was brought forcibly to mind when, upon returning to Mokena and preparing breakfast in the back yard, there they saw a pair of beautiful Baltimore Orioles skimming the tree tops and finally coming to rest in an old apple tree near the campfire.

Later, some saw the black hooded warbler, which none could escape hearing, doing its bird version of rock 'n' roll in the tips of the tallest trees.

Despite coolness, extreme dampness and rain that followed immediately after breakfast, the girls who enjoyed this experience are convinced it will remain a cherished memory and are happily planning another such excursion during the summer.

Tinley Personals

Colette Wojciechowski celebrated her 13th birthday recently with an evening party for 13 friends. The buffet table was centered with a beautiful floral arrangement, complete with candles. The girls enjoyed the usual party fare of games and dainty refreshments. Colette is the daughter of the genial proprietors of John's Food store, Mr. and Mrs. John Wojciechowski.

Week-ends are the most dangerous time to be on U.S. highways. In 1956, more than 56 per cent of all fatalities occurred on Friday, Saturdays and Sundays.

CARELESS PEDESTRIANS
Crosswalks and protected street intersections will not help the pedestrian if he refuses to help himself. According to the Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Ins. Co., wrong pedestrian actions at street intersections kill nearly as many persons each year as are killed between intersections where there are no crosswalks.

In 1956, there were 2,368,000 Americans injured in traffic accidents.

Across The Counter . . .

"The Homeowner's policy is a whole package of protection all in one," I told Harold Green. "It simplifies your insurance program be cause fire and many allied perils, burglary, and personal liability are all in the one policy. That makes it more convenient too. Just one policy, one company, one agent. It avoids the wasteful cost of carrying overlapping coverages besides making it possible to save from 15 to 30% on the overall cost."

"It sound like something I need and want," Harold admitted. "But, I'd better wait awhile since you have my home fire insurance but another agent has the liability coverage. And it doesn't expire until next year."

"We can give you credit for the existing liability policy. That portion of the coverage will be assumed at expiration by the Homeowner's policy."

"Fine," Harold said. "Let's put the Home-owner's in force now."

The same thing applies to you—we can provide the Home-owner's broad coverage, even though we, or another agency, now has your fire, liability or theft coverage.

So, as a recent national magazine article advises, "Don't wait. Call an agent regarding the Home-owner's policy. You'll end up with broader and better protection."

We'll be waiting by the phone—call right away!

Card of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS

Words cannot adequately express our gratitude to our many kind friends who expressed their sympathy and helpfulness so beautifully at the time of the death of our husband and father, especially for the efficient help of the inhalator squad of the Mokena fire department; for the flowers, spiritual bouquets and for those good friends who helped at serving dinner. May God bless you all.
MRS. HENRY BOLEMAN and DAUGHTERS, JEAN, PATRICIA and MARILYN. Mokena

I wish to express my appreciation to the many friends and relatives who sent cards during my recent hospitalization. Also for the welcome visits at the hospital and during my convalescence at home.

JOE ANDRES, Tinley Park

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to the members of the Tinley Park Volunteer Fire department for their prompt response to our recent call for help when our house was on fire. Having been a former volunteer fireman, I realize the tremendous task they confronted.

THE JACK REDMAN FAMILY, Tinley Park

I wish to thank my friends and neighbors for their many kindnesses shown to me and to my family while I was in the hospital and since convalescing at home.

MRS. L. V. BACON, Tinley Park

My sincere thanks to everyone who remembered me with cards, gifts and visits while I was in the hospital and since returning home. Your thoughtfulness will always be remembered.

tees; June McBurney, collector; Terry Gregory, clerk, Tom Blount, mayor, and Bill Darby, attorney. The regular officials are, Police Chief Harold Moore; Trustee Joseph McCarthy; Frank Schneider, building inspector; Trustees Oswald Tattum, Allen Verhage and Robert Oliver; Mrs. Ruth McBurney, collector; Victor Propp, clerk; Mayor Elmer H. Congressman Mason Blames Welfare Philosophy for King-Size Budget

By Congressman N. M. Mason
President Eisenhower says that we cannot cut the budget much until the world situation settles down so we can reduce our appropriations for military and defense purposes. Senator Byrd counters with the following facts:

1. The President's 1958 budget proposes to spend $2 billion LESS for military and defense purposes than the 1954 budget called for, but the 1958 budget asks for $7 billion MORE for domestic and civilian expenditures than the 1954 budget.

2. The 1958 budget asks for $3.5 billion for 78 grants-in-aid programs, while the 1932 budget—before New Deal-Fair Deal-Modern Republicanism were invented—called for total grants-in-aid amounting to only $250 million, making the present budget request just 14 times greater today than before the New Deal took over.

3. The President requested in his budget an authorization bill for federal aid to schools that would require an expenditure of $325 million each year for four years. What has this request to do with National Defense? If the Presidents wants to economize he should cut out this entire item for school aid.

Not even President Eisenhower can reconcile these conflicting statements and figures. The truth is that our New Deal-Fair Deal-Modern Republican welfare philosophy—entirely out side of national defense—is the cause of the inflated, bloated $71.8 billion national budget.

"Tight Money" vs. Inflation
The administration is being urged to loosen up on its tight money policy, to make credit more easily available. Relaxation of bank credit would be a "shot in the arm", but under present conditions it would mean further inflation.

Ex-President Truman, Gov. Harriman, Gov. Williams, and the CIO leaders are all yelling that tight money will bring on a depression. We know from past experience that easy credit and cheap money always fan the flames of inflation.

Farm union officials clamor for higher parity payments; Secretary Ezra Benson seeks to dispose of the price-depressing surpluses now on hand by cut-rate sales abroad, at huge losses to our taxpayers. Foreign-aid spenders tell us that the billions we give away in goods will prop up our economy. They don't tell us that it means propping up prices with our own tax money.

The truth of the whole matter, however, is that the only cure for present inflation, and the only preventative for future inflation, is retrenchment, no matter how unpalatable it may be.

Retrenchment is never popular whether it is retrenchment in family affairs or retrenchment in government affairs. Retrenchment in the home calls for courage, fortitude, will power. When necessary in the home, it is either that or bankruptcy and loss of credit. Retrenchment in government calls for courageous statesmanship and plenty of backbone. When necessary, as it is today, the brakes on inflation must be applied, no matter how unpalatable. It is either that or financial chaos, repudiation, and national bankruptcy. Make your choice.

"Modern Republicanism" Under Fire

The President is having more trouble with his program for Modern Republicanism since the Easter recess of Congress than before. The congressmen when back home during the recess heard more rumblings and grumbings from their worried constituents than they have ever heard. They got an earful from the taxpayers. In the minds of the people back home, Modern Republicanism and colossal budgets go together; they are part and parcel of the same political philosophy.

The far west and the mid-west under Senator Knowland are teamed up against the eastern bloc led by Tom Dewey. The far west and the mid-west want no part of Modern Republicanism, nor the wild government spending the term Modern Republicanism connotes.

METHODISTS TO—

this transaction was made were John Leffler, Leby M. Claves, Jacob H. White, James Oard, Lorenzo Ruggles and Newton P. Holden.

The present church was started in 1908 and dedicated in 1909. Just how much this edifice cost does not appear to be known. Figures and accounts vary. One source says that when the church was dedicated it was free and clear of debt. There is a figure of $3,500 in this account and one inference is that this was the total cost of the church. But someone else said this was the amount given by the general congregation to meet the remaining obligations due after special gifts had taken care of the other expense. Various persons gave the windows, the furnishings and it was said that some made specific donations toward various stages of the work. Some sources have it that the present church cost nearer $20,000 than it did $3,500. The parsonage was built in 1925 for $7,000.

Contract for the building of the new church which was let to Hansen and Petersen Const. Co., Joliet, calls for approximately $124,000. When one adds the price of the site and the cost of furnishing and equipping anyone who wants a law suit tried to have it come before the court in a reasonable period of time.

"Race, color or creed are not considered when the question of trying a case is at stake. Every man is equal when appearing in the courts of these three judges. This is their solemn creed and one they have followed during their terms of office."

The candidate on the Democrat ticket is Raymond Harvey, a Joliet attorney. In the past Harvey has been an unsuccessful candidate for probate judge and state's attorney of Will county on the Democrat ticket. He once ran for the nomination for state's attorney on the Republican ticket but was defeated.

Law On The Farm

by Norm Krausz

Legal voters of a township may take the initiative in getting new roads or improving existing roads. In addition to calling for an election to increase the road and bridge tax rate (or for a special road tax), voters may demand that road bonds be issued.

First, a petition of 25 legal voters in the township is submitted to the town clerk. This petition should contain detailed information on what roads are to be improved and how much money is needed for the bond issue, and should include a request for an election at the annual township meeting or for a special election.

Next the town clerk gives notice to the township electors that a vote on road bonds, including the amount, will be taken at the annual meeting—or, if a special election is petitioned is a recognition of another law that now permits use of motor fuel tax funds to pay off certain township road bonds. This bonding law has been used in many townships to get permanent type rural roads. However, a number of townships that seem to be crying the loudest for more funds have not made use of this source.

EDITORIAL

LOP-SIDED

In the view of the publication Trainman News, competition in the great commercial transportation field is "lop-sided."

It explains why, in these words: "While the railroads are compelled to pay their way in all respects, their subsidized competitors continue to enjoy financial breaks that enable them to operate at a great advantage over the rails."

These "financial breaks" are certainly not limited in importance to their unfair influence on the railroad industry. They are paid for, in part, by all the taxpayers of the country.

The way it works is simple.
The super-trucks and busses operate over highways built at public expense to which they contribute practically nothing.
There is no doubt that the weight of today's huge rigs make it necessary to build far more costly highways than otherwise would be necessary. And there is no doubt that the pounding given by such carriers makes highway maintenance costs soar.

The airlines are provided with airports and other essential facilities and services by government, and the fees and charges they pay in return are nominal.

Finally, the waterways are improved and maintained by the government—again at the expense of everyone.

The situation is going to get worse, not better. We are just starting a new highway program that will ultimately cost something like $50 billions. Bigger, faster and more numerous airplanes will require bigger and better airports—along with a vastly extended system of air traffic control.

What it amounts to is both lop-sided competition for the railroads and a lop-sided deal for the taxpayers.

Your temper is one of the few things that will improve the longer you keep it.

You're an old-timer if you can remember back when a babysitter was called Mother.

EDITORIALS

KEEP THE PUBLIC INFORMED

A member of the Mokena school board took issue with us last week relative to our stand on the publishing of school treasurers' reports.

He is in favor of House Bill No. 613 now pending in the Illinois legislature which would amend the present school publication law. The present law requires a school treasurer to publish all expenditures of a district in detail.

House Bill No. 613 would repeal this law and restore the old abbreviated type of report.

The Mokena board member points out that the old type report "consisted of a complete chronological list, receipts by receipt and expenditure by expenditure, of every transaction, and was posted at the annual election for the voters inspection."
He went on to state that "obviously that report could cover only the period from the first day of the fiscal year to the day of election, but the details for the remainder of the year were always available."

He goes on to say that the work in compiling the report now required "is staggering", altho why that should be is not apparent on the fact of the member's statement. If the treasurer made a detailed note of every transaction, "receipt by receipt and expenditure by expenditure," under the old form it seems to us that he exerted as much effort then as now because presumably he followed the same system for the rest of the year.

It is quite apparent that under the old law very few persons ever saw a report of school expenditures. Mokena happens to be a school district in which there is but one polling place so the treasurer made but one report. What did he do where there were, say a dozen polling places? Did he make out a copy of the report for each or were the people expected to go to one particular place to view the report?

And the viewing would be a laborious process indeed. You may be sure that any person sufficiently interested to make the trip to a polling place for the specific purpose of reading a partial report of a school district's expenditures is going to read it word for word and figure by figure. So what happens if someone else wants to see it? Will he wait? Well, if a blizzard should strike and pile up nine foot drifts about the school in nine minutes so the person could not get home for a couple of days it is probable he would read the report, but there a few blizzards like that in these latitudes in April.

It might be argued that if a person would not read the report while it was hanging up at a polling place he would not read it if it were published in his paper but such is not the case. People are interested in the affairs of the schools and other taxing bodies but most of them are unable—because of their work or the demands upon their time—to get their information in person.

That is why we have newspapers—to keep the public informed, and the public looks to the newspapers for information concerning disposition of his tax money.

If a person had to make such inquiries in person of every taxing body he would not have time to do anything else.

We have a high regard for the men who make up the Mokena grade school board. We think they are doing an excellent job.

A record 45,000 life insurance death claims were paid in 1956 as a result of motor vehicle accidents—3000 more than in '55.

They give unstintingly of their time and efforts to provide the children of the community with a good education. And when we say that we also believe the Mokena school board, and every other school board, should give a detailed account of its expenditures, we have no intent of casting any reflection upon the honesty and integrity of its members.

We are sure the board wants to keep the public informed of the details of its business and publishing the treasurer's report is one way of doing it. The cost of publishing such a report does not divert any appreciable sum of money from the educational program. For instance, the cost to the Mokena board last year was a few cents over $50.

We believe that it is to the public's benefit that House Bill
No. 613 be defeated and we suggest that you write your state representatives and tell them so.

Memorial Day, Like Topsy, 'Just Grewed,' and is Still Growing

By JOHN W. ALLEN
(Southern Illinois University)

A monument on the Stone River battlefield north of Murfreesboro, Tenn., is said to be the first memorial erected to the soldier dead of the Civil War. Over several years this claim apparently has remained unchallenged. However, there are several places laying claim to the first observance of Decoration Day, now marked nationally as Memorial Day.

The practice of beautifying graves, however, is of ancient origin. It has been carried out in a somewhat sporadic manner for centuries. Savage and uncivilized peoples long have marked the graves of their dead and have returned to them with ornaments and offerings. It is the custom of setting aside a special day or days that is of more recent origin.

Our Decoration Day is relatively new—less than 100 years old. As a special day it did not have its beginning until about the end of the war between the states. It was instituted for the placing of floral offerings on the graves of the dead of that war. Soon it was expanded to include the dead of all wars, and, before long, to include all civilian dead as well.

Who Started It?

Widely scattered places appear as claimants for the distinction of having been the first one to set aside and observe a special day. Three such claimants, presented in time sequence are given here. There are Boalsburg, Pa.; Columbus, Ga.; and Carbondale, Ill. These are not the only places that would claim the distinction. They are the three, however, that contend most sharply.

According to an article written by Herbert G. Moore and appearing in the National Republic of May, 1948, the day was observed at Boalsburg on May 30, 1864. On that day, 19-year-old Emma Hunter took flowers to the cemetery to place upon the grave of her colonel father who had been killed leading his regiment at Gettysburg. By coincidence, she met a Mrs. Meyers who had likewise brought flowers to place on the grave of a son killed at Gettysburg. Miss Hunter and Mrs. Meyers talked together and, before leaving, each took some of her flowers and placed them upon the grave the other had come to decorate.

Before parting at the cemetery these two planned to meet again a year later for the same purpose. At intervals during the year, the idea of decorating the graves in the Boalsburg cemetery was discussed with others. Such a plan appealed to many and when May 30, 1865 arrived, a community service washeld. A local clergyman, Dr. George Hall, preached a sermon and all graves were decorated with flags and flowers. According to the account cited "not one grave was neglected". When General Logan, then commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued General Order No. 11 on May 5, 1868, Boalsburg again responded nobly. These are the bases of Boalsburg's claim. So far as is known no contemporary accounts were written.

Began in South?

Another account of the day's origin appeared in the New Orleans Time-Picayune on June 11, 1937. This account was reprinted as a small brochure and distributed by the Alabama state department of archives and history. According to this account, the Ladies' Aid society which had served the cause of the Confederacy became the Ladies' Memorial Association at the end of the war. Even before hostilities ended, the newspaper says, this group of women had decorated the graves of their soldier dead. After the war the memorial objective became their primary one.

The account cited relates that, early in the spring of 1866, Miss Elizabeth Rutherford called a meeting of the members of the group mentioned at the home of Mrs. John Tyler. Their plans for the proper observance of a Memorial Day were made. The date chosen was April 26, the anniversary of Johnson's surrender. Thus, according to the Times-Picayune, the first observance of Memorial Day was made in Columbus, Ga., on April 26, 1866, with the "Hon. J. M. Ramsey" as speaker of the day.

A marker at the grave of Mrs. Elizabeth Rutherford Ellis in the local cemetery carries the inscription: "In her patriotic heart sprang the thought of Memorial day."

Based on the reported dates of their occurrence, Carbondale, Ill., is the third claimant. The Carbondale claim is supported by records kept by Mr. Green, caretaker of the town's early cemetery, by accounts of those participating in the first observance, and by contemporary church records.

This observance was held at Woodlawn cemetery on April 29, 1866. It was the outgrowth of a similar but somewhat spontaneous observance held at Crab Orchard Christian church about four miles west and south of Carbondale on a Sunday two or three weeks earlier.

The Carbondale observance apparently was the first in which returned veterans were major participants. Its promotion definitely was in the hands of these men and the pattern it set was the one followed for the next 50 years or more.

According to Mr. Green's record there were 219 'comrades' in the line of march. They were led by Colonel J. J. Ingersoll, "Master of the Day". Rev. J. W. Lane, pastor of the First Methodist church, offered prayer. Gen. John A. Logan was speaker of the day. Green records one passage, perhaps the highlight of Logan's talk . . . "Every man's life belongs to his country and no man has a right to refuse it when his country calls for it".

Read Isaiah 53:1-6.
"The Son of man came to seek and to save the lost. Luke 19:10. RSV.)

Two small Arab boys gazed upon Alfred Soord's picture, THE LOST SHEEP. Pointing to Jesus, one little fellow said, "Look, He's going to fall!" Immediately his playmate said, "No, He isn't; He's holding fast!"

Such childlike faith is the kind we would like to have for ourselves. Those possessed of such faith do believe that no matter what the personal dangers—no matter what the cost—Christ came to find us and save us, His lost sheep.

What a comforting thought! Christ is eager to help us find our way back to God regardless of the number of times we have strayed from His path.

"I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." God sent His Son into the world to save sinners. His mission is a sacred one. Because God sent Jesus to us, He will not fail; He will hold fast.

Let nothing hinder us from believing in Christ and His power to save us and to unite us in the fellowship with all others who so believe.

PRAYER

Gracious Father, we thank Thee for Thy Son, Jesus Christ. Grant us insight to sense that He is seeking us, strengthen our belief that He can save us, increase our love and encourage us to trust His guidance. In His blessed name. Amen.

Says Mosquito Abatement is No Threat to Conservation Interests

William J. Buchanan, manager of the South Cook County Mosquito Abatement district, speaking before the Conservation Council of Chicago last Map 16 emphatically rejected the notion that modern mosquito abatement practices were opposed to conservation interests.

Pointing out that some of the country's finest fishing, wildlife sanctuaries and recreation areas are found in the Tennessee river valley and elsewhere where extensive mosquito abatement has been in progress for about 25 years, Buchanan emphasized that modern mosquito abatement organizations such as TVA and the South Cook district usually employ a professional entomologist under whose supervision continuing biological evaluations are made.

O. V. Lopp, entomologist for the South Cook district, accompanied Buchanan and participated with him in the question and answer period that followed the showing of two brief films on mosquito control techniques.

Assuring his hearers that the indiscriminate use of insecticides has no place in a modern mosquito abatement program, Buchanan stated that the application of abatement measures, whether they involve chemical control or engineering techniques, is a joint endeavor in which the entomologist and field operator or engineer continuously appraise the need for selective control and the methods to be employed.

Reporting that the South Cook field personnel is trained in entomological inspection techniques so that only those bodies of water actually producing mosquitoes are treated, Buchanan said that there are some 7500 bodies of water under surveillance in the 340 square mile South Cook district, only about 53% of which have been found to be producing mosquitoes.

The Conservation Council is a clearing house for about one hundred organizations in the Chicago area with some interest in conservation. Dr. R. M. Strong, is chairman of the council. The luncheon meeting was held in the Stevens building, 17 North State.

Court Finds Park Attorney Padded Expenses

(CNS) Judge James J. McDermott has entered a $1,495 judgment for the Oak Lawn park district against Dwight W. Croessman, its former attorney.

Thomas W. Dillon, park district president, charged in the Superior court trial that Croessman padded his expense account in that total sum on various occasions in 1953, 1954 and 1955. Croessman was the park district's attorney during the fiscal years 1948 to 1955.

Croessman was served with a summons March 2 at his reported home in DuQuoine, Ill., but did not appear to defend himself at any time in the proceedings. The trial ended Wednesday.

The court found the defendant guilty of charges in the complaint and also held that the acts charged in the complaint were "done willfully, maliciously, wrongfully and with deliberation and calculated to secure monies from the plaintiff to which the defendant knew he was not entitled to receive."

Atty. Louis F. Cainkar, representing the park district, said it will decide whether to press collection of the judgment. He said the court's malice finding prohibits the possibility of one going into bankruptcy to escape payment.

Lists Charges

If Croessman doesn't pay, Cainkar said, the malice count enables the park district to return to court for an order putting Croessman in jail until he pays or works it out.

The suit charged Croessman submitted and was paid for bills in the following work, alleged as fictitious:

1. Burda and Van Scheltema survey, $75 bill submitted February 3, 1953.
 2. Quo warranto proceedings, $400 bill submitted September 30, 1953.
 3. Chicago Title and Trust company expenses, $83.40 bill submitted December 10, 1953 and another for $151 filed June 1, 1954 along with one for $15 on revenue stamps to get title to Blue Top property never conveyed.
 4. Continuations on park district property, $146.50 bill submitted October 13, 1954.
 5. Work that wasn't performed (not specified in suit), $250 bill submitted October 10, 1955.
 6. Fee on condemnation proceedings, $100 bill submitted April 14, 1955.
 7. Services rendered on tax anticipation warrants, $125 bill submitted May 17, 1955.
 8. For services for approving attorneys, $150 bill submitted May 17, 1955.
- Dillon said he discovered this after Croessman left the park district.

ONE DRINK IS TOO MANY

How do you convince a drinking driver that one for the road is one too many—before it's too late, that is? If safety authorities could find the answer to this question, they would save untold suffering and thousands of lives yearly, it was pointed out. Authorities say only one drink can rob you of vitally needed physical and mental alertness when you get behind the wheel.

WRONG TURNS FATAL

Making a turn off of a thru highway from the wrong traffic lane is one of the surest routes to the repair shop or the hospital, safety experts say. Make right turns from the right lane, left turns from the left. There are seldom any exceptions to this rule.

SPEED PROVEN KILLER
Drivers who wonder why law enforcement officials crack down so hard on speeders should remember that speeding is responsible for more fatal accidents than any other traffic violation. The Institute for Safer Living lists these reasons why high speed makes a car especially vulnerable to accidents: 1. Time and distance required to stop increases greatly. 2. A driver's reaction time and physical ability to stop remains constant. The car travels much farther before he can act to stop it. 3. Mechanical failure at high speed means a car out of control.

Of the rare metal group, titanium is now receiving considerable attention. It took 65 years from the discovery of an economic method of aluminum production to the use of the metal on a wide spread scale. About the same pattern is followed by magnesium where some 40 years have passed and this metal has still found only minor application.

As regards titanium, the situation is decidedly reversed since uses for this metal have been developed, but as yet economical or cheap methods for its production have not. Industrial production of titanium goes back only about nine years. The military uses of titanium are not impeded by its cost. At present titanium mill products carry a price of about $11.50 per pound and it is estimated that by 1960, this price may be reduced to $7.50 per pound. Current production of titanium mill products is estimated about 6,000 tons at this time and 40,000 tons is expected by 1961. At even this expanded production rate it is believed that military use will require about 90 per cent of production due to this metal's high strength, light weight and resistance to heat and corrosion.

There are concrete reasons to expect a growing pattern of military demand for the metal. In the first instance, titanium fabricated products used as engine components, as structural parts and as skins and shrouds for planes, show up with superior performance over most other metals. Weight saving permits considerable economy in aircraft design and construction. Commercial air liners naturally are interested in strength and weight saving features due to increased payload potential. Price does not impede such application. The Douglas DC-7 commercial air liner uses about 700 pounds of titanium and the Douglas and Boeing jet airliners are expected to use 1,000 pounds.

Militarily its use is not confined to airplane application. Its light weight and corrosion resistance properties give it many applications. For instance using titanium in the base plate of the 81 millimeter mortar, reduces the overall weight from 47 to 24 pounds making it possible for one man to carry the base plate and reducing the mortar crew to two men and increasing fire power per man by 50 per cent. Applied to projectiles, it is estimated that the range of certain shells will be increased as much as 35 per cent.

Industrial applications have long needed a high heat resistant alloy, but the cost of developing such an alloy made its development a dubious commercial venture. The need was for an alloy which could be forged and machined. The navy made a cost plus contract with Universal Cyclops Steel to develop such an alloy for use mainly in jet places where heat resistance is essential. This company which is a top company in fabricating tool steels, developed a method of making an acceptable alloy of titanium, nickel and chrome thru the addition of another rare metal, zirconium, and combining them under vacuum. Undoubtedly this alloy will also be used in atomic reactors which also require high heat resistant alloys in parts of their construction.

There are a number of firms that are interested in these rare metals, but from an investors point of view, if the firm is large, the impact of development in the field on a per share basis would be small. Allegheny Ludlum and National Lead jointly formed Titanium Metals Corporation which is the industry's largest unit. Sharon Steel and P. R. Mallory & Co. formed Mallory-Sharon Titanium Corp. which rank first and second in titanium mill products.

In Gary, Ind., it's against the law to get on a street car within 4 hours after eating garlic.

Ford Worker Gets Award for Safety Idea

A plant guard has received the first award presented under the newly adopted employee suggestion plan at Ford's Chicago stamping plant at Chicago Heights, it was reported by J. T. Logue, industrial relations manager.

The suggester is Allen J. Talkington, of 1018 Gardner st., Joliet, who suggested that all company cars assigned to the plant be provided with red safety flares for use in emergencies. He received $35.

The plan provides for the payment of cash awards ranging to a maximum of $3,000 to employees for usable ideas promoting safety and product quality. It was adopted as a company program in 1947 and went into effect at the stamping plant April 1.

Talkington's suggestion was one of 367 suggestions and proposals submitted in the first two weeks that the plan was in operation at the plant.

In the nine years that the plan has been in effect as a company program, Ford men and women across the country have received cash awards totaling $4,674,967.

In 1956, suggesters earned a total of $900,246, with the average award reaching an all-time high of $65.38. Thirty-two of the awards were for the maximum of $3,000.

Joan Aulwurm Gets GAA Award At Sandburg

Miss Joan Aulwurm was presented with the Girls' Athletic Association senior recognition award at the first mother daughter buffet dinner held at Carl Sandburg high school, May 21.

Six candidates were presented to the members of the club and were evaluated on the basis of service to their club, leadership, sportsmanship, participation and scholarship. Miss Aulwurm was selected from the other candidates in elections held earlier.

She is also an active member of the National Honor society, the Pep club, and a member of the cheerleader squad. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Aulwurm of Orland Park.

Other business of the evening included the installation of new officers for the G.A.A. for the forthcoming school year. They are: Elin Bates, president; Lila Baker, vice president; Carol Schneid, secretary; Kay Halvorson, treasurer; Nancy Hlavek, point chairman; Nancy Bendix, assistant point chairman. The Misses Bates and Baker will represent the local club at the Northern G.A.A. leadership training camp, Williams Bay, Wis., June 9-16.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

"I do not know what the amount of taxes represents when we talk about $70 billion. . . . I do know this: we can't afford what we are spending and stay strong enough to lead the world to peace."—Dwight D. Eisenhower, 1952 Presidential Campaign.

At age 20 we don't care what the world thinks of us; at 30 we begin to worry what it thinks of us; at 50 we find it wasn't thinking of us at all.

Daley Deplores Slaughter on The Highways

By RICHARD J. DALEY
Mayor of Chicago
(Paulist Feature Service)

On Memorial Day we honor the memory of hundreds of thousands of men who have given their lives in battle since the Civil War. But there is a horrible fact that we would seem to forget: in the past fifty years more American lives have been lost on highways than have been lost on battlefields—from the Revolutionary War to the present time!

How can we allow such a waste of human life and the same time proclaim the welfare of mankind—or insist on man's responsibility for his fellow man—or point out that our nation was founded on man's inalienable right to life?

We give millions to doctors and research workers to wage a ceaseless war on death from cancer, heart disease, T.B., and polio. Yet, where we could practice preventive medicine ourselves—behind the wheel of an automobile—we fail. Forty per cent of the 37,800 men, women and children killed in 1955 lost their lives as a direct result of excessive speed.

An Ancient Law

Such reckless disregard of the law of the highway should make us think seriously—have we lost the true basis of law? A traffic violation is not simply a matter of getting a ticket and paying a fine.

The highway law is older than the automobile or the carriage. It is as old as man himself. Self-preservation and respect for one's neighbor are written in the heart of man. "Thou shalt not kill," was written on the tablets of stone that God handed to Moses on Mount Sinai thousands of years ago.

When our lawmakers say, "Speed Limit—30 M.P.H." they are taking the necessary steps to see to it that God's commandment of respect for human life is carried out in the local community.

Careless or deliberate disregard of the speed limit is certainly a violation of the law of the community. But it is also a reckless disregard of the life that God has entrusted to each individual. It is taking a chance on suicide or murder.

Duty to God and to our fellow man demands that we: KNOW OUR CAR—frequently checking the brakes, headlights, tail light, horn, etc.; KNOW OURSELVES—our tired condition—not overestimating the speed of our reactions; CHECK OUR DRIVING—always watching the speedometer, traffic signals, distance from other cars; PRAY—that God will protect us, our passengers, and our fellow citizens on the road.

Fix-up Mail Boxes, Urges Summerfield

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield called attention today to the annual rural mail box improvement program to be observed two week starting June 3.

The program this year has been broadened to include boxes on certain types of suburban "mounted" routes where the householder's box is close to the curb and is served by a carrier mounted on a vehicle.

Here are some points that will be stressed during the rural mail box improvement program this year:

1. Where boxes are improperly erected or in unserviceable condition, patrons will be encouraged to provide suitable receptacles, erected and maintained for easy and safe accessibility, presenting a neat appearance, and affording protection to the mail.

2. Box holders will be urged to paint their boxes and box supports where needed.

3. Box owners will be urged to inscribe their names clearly on that side of the box which is clearly visible to the carrier as he approaches, if they have not already done so.

4. Postmasters and rural carrier will enlist the cooperation of patrons to group boxes together at one site along the road wherever practicable.

5. Box holders will be asked to make sure boxes are located on the proper side of the road.

The proper side of the road for the box is on the right hand side of the road in the direction the carrier drives when covering his route, unless the locality is such that it does not present a hazard or a violation of law for the carrier to cross to the left side of the road to make the delivery.

On "mounted" routes approval rural boxes need not be provided but they must be of a "rural" type,—that is they must be a type located at the curb line, and erected so that the bottom of the box will be 3½ to 4 feet above the roadway. Also, of course, they should provide proper protection for the mail against the weather.

Mr. Summerfield noted that programs such as rural mail box improvement program have been of tremendous benefit in assuring safe delivery of the mails, and in helping to beautify rural America.

To show what progress has been made, Mr. Summerfield called attention to a postoffice department report of 1899 — when some of the first efforts were being made by postal authorities to improve rural mail boxes. The report stated, "extreme carelessness was manifested . . . tomato cans, cigar boxes, drainage pipes upended, discarded stovepipes were used soap boxes and even section of as mail boxes. . ."
